SF4C AMBASSADOR
MEETING IN DORDOGNE

November 27th to 29th, 2024

Introduction to the Ambassador Meeting: Preparing Country-Specific Contributions for SchoolFood4Change

It is a pleasure to welcome you to this pivotal meeting under the SchoolFood4Change (SF4C) initiative. Today, we focus on a critical aspect of our mission: empowering each of you to craft country-specific contributions that not only reflect the unique food landscapes of your nations but also amplify the shared goals of sustainable, healthy, and inclusive school food systems.

As outlined in the SF4C Vademecum, the role of Food Ambassadors is central to the success of this initiative. Representing diverse cultural and policy contexts, you bring invaluable perspectives to the table. Your efforts—whether through participation in local trainings, organizing impactful Canteen Day Parties, or disseminating SF4C's outcomes at external conferences—are instrumental in creating a cascade effect that reaches schools, communities, and beyond.

Scope of Preparation:

Tailoring Messages to National Contexts: Each of you will develop speeches and action plans that resonate with your country's unique challenges and opportunities. This includes emphasizing local successes while aligning with SF4C's overarching objectives.

Engaging Diverse Stakeholders: Your messages will be directed at diverse audiences—from school administrators and policymakers to students and community members—aiming to foster broad support and collaboration.

Showcasing Global Impact Through Local Action: Highlighting the transformative potential of school food systems, your speeches will demonstrate how localized efforts contribute to global sustainability goals.

Tools and Support:

To aid in this process, we will revisit the resources shared during the Pollenzo training and beyond. These include best practices for organizing training sessions, engaging effectively with Urban Food Enablers, and leveraging communication platforms to amplify SF4C's reach. Your participation in this meeting will also help refine strategies for upcoming dissemination activities, such as external conferences.

Today marks a vital step in translating the ideals of SF4C into actionable, inspiring narratives tailored to the needs of your countries. Together, let us work to ensure that your voices as Food Ambassadors ignite meaningful changes across schools and communities.

Thank you for your commitment, creativity, and leadership. Let us embark on this journey with clarity and purpose.
